

K. Kashimura<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup>Chubu Univ.

Abstract

MW heating acts on asbestos fibers in slates and degrade them at low temperature comparing with conventional heating methods. The simulation of comsol multiphysics makes important roles to investigate the degrading mechanism, and will be introduced at the conference. We introduce the flow to ascertain the mechanism of asbestos detoxification and introduce how comsol multiphysics software contributed to this, from the standpoint of experiment researchers.